BREWERY FAISAN

THE OPPORTUNITY

With a specific set of experience in beer, owners Paul and Rachel Szlaga called Honor to partner on their building renovation and taproom creation.

TIMELINE

Renovation of an old, dilapidated warehouse on the East side of Detroit brought challenges in utilities, roofing and parking. Not to mention the preparation of the brewing systems and customer area.

Renovation of an old, dilapidated warehouse on the East side of Detroit brought challenges in utilities, roofing and parking. Not to mention the preparation of the brewing systems and customer area.

MAKING IT HAPPEN

Working the networks, Honor preconstruction made great Detroit based relationships in our subcontractors and local supervision. This local network helped push through the inevitable bumps in the road.

WHAT THE CLIENT HAD TO SAY

“ From the very first meeting, it was clear that Honor understood our concerns. Honor’s open-book style of construction management and their attention to detail was exactly what we were looking for. As we sit in our finished brewery, we appreciate the hard work and dedication from the Honor team throughout the construction process. As unpredictable as construction can get, Honor was a pleasure to work with and a truly professional partner through it all. ”
